Artist of the Month

A special exhibit of the Plein Air Painting Group will display artwork recently painted at Ardoyne Plantation. The Guild hosted a workshop with New Orleans artist Phil Sandusky in April. After three days of painting at this intriguing location, the Plein Air Group decided to continue meeting at Ardoyne every other Monday for several weeks. The results of these outings will be on exhibit July 1 – 31.

Local and regional artists exhibiting their artwork include New Orleans artist Darlene Johnson, Thibodaux artist Mickey Guillory, Schriever artists Gayle Cope and Kim Voisin. Houma artists include Karen Kelly, Gail LeCompte and Carlotta Matherne. There may be additional artists joining the group.

The subjects selected for these paintings are varied; from the house, to the syrup kettles to the oak trees and other delightful scenes. There are so many paintable sites at Ardoyne it is difficult to choose which to tackle first. That is why we kept going back so often and the group may be showing up there again in the near future to continue to capture these locations.
